YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

Now with the flights returning to normal post covid the noise and sleep disturbance from Luton airport activities is already excessive. Yesterday they were on the Tele saying how green they were as they were going to have legally binding planning conditions on their next application. This application proves they they have total disregard for planning conditions and a recent report has highlighted that airlines missed all but one of their self set climate targets, and that was just a 3% change versus the 100% actually required for climate impact. This application clearly needs to be rejected from both a climate change perspective and the appalling impact this has on its neighbours, in addition to ensuring that the airport has to take the planning process seriously and stops considering planning applications as merely a annoying hindrance to its desire to expand without reference to the damage that does to near neighbours and the world.
