Comment Reasons:

Comment: I understand this bridge to have been listed. While I understand the apparent need to clear space to allow the rail upgrade, surely a piece of industrial history can be re-instated after the work has been completed. To remove it completely will impact local residents who walk the Makins path regularly, particularly older people who walk the circular route over the two bridges. It's bad enough that the lovely old bridge at Garforth train station has been permanently removed without permanently removing this one as well.
