Good morning,

In the recent past I lived in Devon near to several level crossings used by a steam railway.

It was not uncommon for families and enthusiasts to gather on foot to get a glimpse of steam locomotives as they passed through.

I hope that families would not get out of their cars on the A21 to have a look.

I live some seven miles from the proposed site and have no particular interest in the railway, but I do use the A21 and I am aware of the reputation of this road.

Regards,

Ian Norley.

East Sussex.
