

OBJ-115 – Simon Bailey

Sirs/Madam

I write to add my comments.. If this pedestrian crossing is closed the town will lose an important amenity. It is a very convenient access for many residents to access both the centre of the town and the railway itself. An alternative such as a walkway bridge would be acceptable. I have been a GP in Newmarket for 44 years so I know about local safety. The number of accidents and cases self harm associated with the railway are small - we have electric gates for roads - perhaps the gates at the crossing could be locked for trains approaching?

Yours truly

Simon Bailey
